Proceedings in the Damage Suit of G. H. Meschedorf Against T. D. Tolle. HIS TRADE HURT BY A NEWSPAPER ARTICLE

Ten Thousand Dollars Asked as a Basis for His Wounded Feelings and Loss of Business—A Conspiracy Alleged.

The $10,000 damage suit of George H. Meschedorf against Thomas D. Tolle, who was formerly a reporter for a now defunct Omaha paper, was put upon trial in the district court yesterday morning.

Meschedorf testified that from January 1, 1891 to January 1, 1892 he did a business of $80,000, but on the publication of the article his business was stopped for a period of a month. He said his business aggregated between $2,000 and $3,000 per month, from June to August he made a profit of $5,000 and from July to November between $8,000 and $4,000.

Meschedorf testified that from January 1, 1891 to January 1, 1892 he did a business of $80,000, but on the publication of the article his business was stopped for a period of a month.

Doesn't Want a Sealer. The work which has been going on on the east Pierce street sewer for several days past was stopped suddenly yesterday afternoon by a writ of injunction that was issued by Judge Smith upon a petition filed by George Keelinge.

Spencer Smith, attorney for the plaintiff, appeared before the city council last evening at the meeting of the committee of the whole and made a proposition to which he agreed to discontinue his proceedings on condition that the council would not insist on putting in a sewer beyond 100 feet east of the fire hydrant in front of Keelinge's place.

FAMINE FOR THE EAST. The population of India rapidly rising above 200,000,000.

The population of the Indian Empire has risen within the memory of the present generation from 230,000,000 to 280,000,000. It has been increasing at the rate of 2,500,000 annually, and is now rising at the rate 3,000,000. If no large families occur it will considerably exceed 300,000,000 at the end of the century now drawing to a close.

The average population in the Indian empire is very moderate, for all that the density in some parts is considerable and in other parts too great. On the other hand there is a large quantity of cultivable land still unused, the extent of which can be fully known by experience alone.

One fearfully potent cause, arising from internal war, devastation and disorder, which up to the present century has decimated the people, has been effectually stopped. But pestilence, which in former centuries occasionally stalked through the land, still lurks in many places. It is kept down by sanitation, by the diffusion of medical education among the natives, and by the purification of the water supply.

The recorded experience of more than a century shows that this scourge has appeared in one quarter or another one in every three years, its recurrence is extremely probable. It springs from atmospheric conditions which may be partially controlled, but cannot be wholly averted by the power of man.

The conservancy and propagation of forests will improve the supply of moisture in the country. Great efforts without stint of money, will be made by the government to find wages and employment for the multitudes suddenly thrown out of work by the cessation of labor in the fields and the temporary paralysis of the hand looms, the potteries and other village industries.
